REV. JASON CHRYSOSTOM MOSER, D. D.

Jason Chrysostom Moser, D. D.

Rev. J. C. Moser, D. D., was of the third generation of Lutheran ministers in his family, and if he had lived seven months longer, these three ministers would have served through a century in the Lutheran ministry in North Carolina.

Rev. Daniel Moser, the grandfather of the subject of this sketch, was born in Orange County, N. C., May 8, 1790. He was licensed to preach by the North Carolina Synod of the Lutheran church, in Linclonton, N. C., April 6, 1812, and was ordained to the office of the ministry on Trinity Sunday, 1820, at the same place. In this office he labored twenty-seven years, during which time he preached 1943 sermons, baptized 2450 persons, and confirmed 821.

Rev. Timothy Moser, son of Daniel, was born in Catawba County, N. C., May 7, 1817, and was set apart for the work of the ministry by the Tennessee Synod, on October 10, 1844, in Zion's church, Catawba County, N. C. He died near Mt. Pleasant, N. C., July 25, 1900. Thus he labored in the holy office among his own people, and in connection with the Synod of his father during a period of fifty-six years, though he retired from active work and only supplied at intervals during the last twelve years of his life. He preached 2661 sermons. To him the title of 'father' and 'peacemaker' were given by his co-laborers in attestation of his eminent service and pious life.

Two of his sons entered the Gospel ministry. Rev. John F., died February 3, 1897. He was a member of the faculty of Concordia College, Conover, N. C., six years. Exchanging the teacher's desk for the pulpit, he was ordained July 7, 1890. That his short period of service was fruitful is shown by the records of Conference and Synod at the time of his death.

Jason Chrysostom Moser was born November 18, 1849, in Cabarrus county, N. C. Very early in life, he decided to offer himself for the work of the ministry. Accordingly, he secured all the preparatory education possible; entered North Carolina College, from which he graduated in the class of '73 with high honors and from which he afterwards received the degree of Doctor of Divinity; and took a course in theology under the private tutorship of his father.

Immediately after graduation he was licensed to preach by the Tennessee Synod and accepted a call to serve the following churches: St. Mark's, Mt. Moriah, and Phanuel's in Rowan county; Morning Star in Mecklenburg County; and Emanuel's in Union county. His first sermon was preached in this parish August 17, 1873. He also taught school at China Grove. After three years of theological study and experience, the period of licensure terminated and Dr. Moser was solemnly ordained to the office of pastor, October, 10, 1876, He continued to serve this parish until the fall of 1882.

He delivered an address at the commencement of Concordia High School, Conover, N. C., in 1880. The address was so excellent that friends published it and the youthful author was asked to accept a professor-ship in the hopeful young school. He labored in the school at Conover five years. During two years, '85 to '87, he was president. Much of his time was spent in canvassing for funds. At the same time he was pastor of two churches, Sharon and St. Martin's in Iredell county.

In the summer 1888 he accepted a call to Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Hickory, N. C., where he spent the remainder of his years,—almost a quarter of a century. This long service in Hickory resulted in much good. Many souls grew strong under the good man's spiritual care. The congregation was established. Several others grew out of its membership. A handsome new church building stands as an enduring monument to Dr. Moser's self-sacrifice and devotion. It is agreed that the bar-rooms were driven from Hickory largely through his work and that he exerted an influence for prohibition in other parts of the State.

Because of his faith in christian education he became one of four men who gave their personal notes for $2500 each for the erection of the main building at Lenoir College, thereby making the offer of the splendid site available and the establishment of the college assured. From 1891 to 1901, Dr. Moser held the chair of Latin in the Faculty of Lenoir College.

He was a member of the Board of Trustees sixteen years and served as its first chairman ten consecutive years.

Being urged by declining health he gave up the arduous duties of an active city pastorate and served the pastorate at Claremont, N. C., the last six months of his life. He preached his last sermon at Claremont October 1, 1911 from Luke 7:14, and six weeks later, Sunday November 12, 1911, while his resignation was being read to the congregation, his soul was leaving the tenement of clay for the many mansions.

On December 26, 1873, Dr. Moser was happily married to Miss Elizabeth C. Lee of Union county, N. C. To this union four children were born: Arthur L., Claud A., Leslie R. and Virginia.

Dr. Moser was a well-rounded man. He was a model in all the relations of life which he sustained, husband and father, preacher, pastor, theologian, teacher, leader in church and community, and practical man of affairs.

The dominant motive of his character was a deep and serious conviction of the true meaning of life.

In boyhood and while preparing for the work of life, he evinced a rapid development of positive conviction of truth concerning the deeper things of life.

In the pulpit he preached as a 'dying man to dying men'. Here he found the proper place for the exercise of his spirit and talent. His sermons, classical in their simplicity and force, evangelical in their warmth and directness, and powful in their elucidation of Scripture, went straight into the heart and made many deep and lasting impressions. He preached 3273 sermons, and delivered a great many addresses. He made upwards of five hundred pastoral calls annually. His serious intentions were sometimes mistaken because he found little time for social visits but always sought to reach or strengthen some soul in his visitations among men. Since the Bible is the divine revelation of the fundamental princinles of right living and the study of these same principles his peculiar delight, it is not surprising that he was a conservative and learned theologian.

In the school room he was greatly in earnest and used the classics with order and enthusiasm as a means of dicipline for the ultimate development of strength of mind and heart.

As president and member of the Board of Trustees of Lenoir College, he felt deeply the responsibility of his office and ever sought to perform his duties for the single purpose of advancing the work.

He was a recognized leader in the Lutheran church. He was a pillar in the Tennessee Synod. His wisdom was sought in the solution of all problems in the Synod. Synod frequently placed him in offices of responsibility. Once he went to a diet in Philadelphia as a representative of the Lutheran church in the South. Always he executed these trusts with great concern for the advancement of truth and righteousness.

He recognized that the evils of society are due to human sinfulness and in whatever work he did for social and civic purity, he used the Gospel as the means by which to accomplish his end.

It was possible for him to accomplish so much important work only by the use of systematic methods evolved and used because of his earnest purpose. He kept accurate and complete records, files, diaries, and a severe orderliness in his whole life.

Foreword

After much toil, involving both pleasure and disappointment, we have added Volume V of the Hacawa to the list of its predecessors. We have done our best, and we hope that the sympathetic readers of this book will appreciate our efforts and be lenient with us for any oversights or short comings.

We have tried to make the Hacawa a pleasant summary of the events of the college year, and a true index to our college life.

Hoping that we have accomplished our aim, we respectfully submit it to our supreme critics—our readers.

"You're dog-gone right"

"Dan" is the natural born lawyer of the Class. His delight is in arguing, and for hours he will carry on an argument and never give up Is very self-confident and is never afraid to say what he thinks. Is held in high esteem by all the Faculty.

NORA JANE COULTER

Newton, N. C.

Entered Sophomore Class Sept. 1910. Member of Philalethian Literary Society, Oakview Missionary Guild, Treasurer and President of Philalethian Society, 1911-12. Bible Editor of Lenoirian 1912. Treasurer of Philalethian Society 1912. President of Class 1912-13.

"Oh, Patience"

"Miss Jane", is very dignified. Is always studious and is scarcely seen out of her room. If she has ever gone with a boy it is a secret. She loves her work and never neglects it. Is kind hearted and is always willing to lend a helping hand. Her greatest ambition is to be a school teacher and go to Texas.

JOHN LUTHER MORGAN

Gold Hill, N. C.

Entered Preparatory 1904; completed Freshman Class 1906-07; President of Fresh-Soph Debate 1910-11, stopped out three years; re-entered Sophomore 1910; member Chrestonian Literary Society; has held every office in Chrestonian Society; actor in four different plays while in school; "School for Scandal", "She Stoops to Conquer," "Merchant of Venice," Snowball"; on winning side of three public debates; Chrestonian Debator's Medal 1912; Secretary of Young Men's Bible Society 1911-12; Secretary of Student Commission 1911-12. "Hell-o"

"Johny" is the oldest in the class and is generally the most dignified. He acts as he feels. Very popular. Has excellent executive abilities and holds more offices than any other member of the class. A leader in all church affairs and intends studying for the ministry.

MAMIE LEE MILLER

Newton: N. C.

Entered Sophomore Class 1910. Member of Philalethian Literary Society, Oakview Missionary Guild-Young Ladies Athletic Association; Treasurer of Philalethian Society 1911. Philalethian Society Prize 1910; Class Historian 1912-13; Assistant Editor-in-Chief of Hacawa.

"All right"

"Maria" is a quiet, studious girl whom no one ever accused of flirting. She blushes furiously sometimes; and delights in walking the Warpath. Her winning smile and soft voice have won her many friends and her studious mind has won recognition from the faculty. In the future we expect to hear of her having accomplished wonders in her own quiet and unselfish way.

RICHARD HARVEY SHUFORD

Hickory, N. C.

Entered Freshman Class 1910. Member of Euronian Literary Society; Vice-President H. H. L. V. I. H. G. Club 1910; Class Historian 1911; Orator Euronian Anniversary 1911. President of Class 1911-12; Contributions Editor of Lenoirian 1911; Winner of Euronian Debators medal 1912 and of Junior Orators medal 1912; President of H. H. L. V. I. H. G. Club 1912-13; Twice President of Euronian Literary Society; Valedictorian; Fditor-in-Chief of Hacawa; Inter-Collegiate Debator 1913.

"Shore"

"Dick" is tall, handsome and lively, and in general the favorite of the class. He seldom studies, but is one of a bright mind which does not require much studying. He is an eloquent speaker. Although Dick is somewhat young and unsettled we look for his future to be crownded with success for he is generally successful in anything he undertakes.

FRANCES NAOMI CLINE

White Rock, S. C.

Entered Freshman September 1909; Vice-Pres. of class 1909-10; Member of Philalethian Literary Society, Missionary Guild, Ladies Athletic Association; Chaplain and Censor of Philalethean Literary Society. 1909-10; Poet of Class 1910-11; Secretary of Class 1911-12; Secretary of Athletic Association 1911-12; Sec of Philalethian Society 1911-12, Local Editor of Lenorian 1912; Class Prophet 1913; President of Philalethian Society 1912; Vice-Pres. of Ladies Athletic Association 1912-13; Vice-Pres. of Missionary Guild 1912-13; Assistant Business Manager of Hacawa 1912-13.

"Honestly"

"Kippsie" is the smallest in the class as well as the youngest. She is quick and active. Possesses a strong imagination which enables her to write good original stories and prophecies. A good society member. Is very fond of reading and often when all Oakview is in slumber, Kippsie may be found buried in a novel which she must finish tonight.

ROBERT CAMPBELL LAKE

Pomaria, S. C.

Entered Freshman 1909; Member Chrestonian Literary Society. Has held every office in the society; Member of Bible Society; Treasurer 1912; Vice-Pres. 1913: Athletics Editor of the Lenoirian 1911-12; Business Mgr. 1912-13; "Bertuccio" in "The Fools Revenge"; Played 2 characters in "She Stoops to Conquer"; Chrestonian Aniversary speaker 1912; Jnuior Orator 1912; Student Commission 1911-12; Secretary Student Committee 1912-13; Secretary of Athletic Association 1911-12; Scrub Debators prize 1911; Pres. of Chrestonian Anniversary 1913; Manager of Baseball Tean 1913.

"You'd better go slow"

R. C. is a happy go-lucky fellow and has never taken life seriously. He is very witty and agreeable to those around him. Although he has spent much time flirting all through his college course, he has shown a talent for the stage and we shall expect to hear of the success of "R. C." the great dramatist.

LOUISE MAYER EARGLE

Chapin, S. C.

Entered Freshman Class 1909; Member of Eumenean Literary Society, Oakview Missionary Guild, Ladies Athletic Association; Vice-President of Class 1910; Vice-President Eumenean Society; 1911; Contributions Editor of Lenoirian, 1912; President Eumenean Literary Society; Pres. Young Ladies Athletic Association; Pres. of Missionary Guild; Played Fiordelisa in "The Fools Revenge"; Statistics Editor of Hacawa.

"You know not"

"Liza Jane" is our little sunbeam. She is always happy and gay and spreads sunshine whereever she goes. She never looks for trouble and seldom finds any. She is very sociable and has many friends.

EDGAR ZIRKLE PENCE

Henry, N. C.

"Where"

"Grouchy" is a character impossible to describe. His class mates have tried in vain to fathom the depth of his peculiar being. He is very serious and hard to understand. He talks but little and what he says is worth saying. Has a scholarly face and back of that is the mind of a scholar.

CHARLOTTE ELAINE CLINE

Hickory, N. C.

Entered Freshman 1909; member Eumenean Literary Society, Oakview Missionary Guild, Luther League, Ladies Athletic Association 1910; Chaplain 1911; Vice-Pres. 1911; President 1912; President for two terms 1912; Censor of Eumenean Society; Treasurer of Luther League; "Mrs Featherstone" in "Snowball"; Member of Dramatic Club.

"You don't say so"

"Lntchie" is a business like girl. She never meets a stranger. Whatever she does she puts her whole heart and soul intn it. She lives in hope and never gives up. Has many talents, which are especially shown in her voice and expression.

DANIEL LAMONT SECKINGER

Rincon, Ga.

Entered Senior Class from Newberry College in 1912; member of Euronian Literary Society; Edin-Chief of Lenorian; Orator Euronian Anniversary 1913; Class Statistician; Treasurer of Class 1912-13.

"Take it from me"

"Seck" joined us last Sept. He has made quite a record as a ladies man. He is a favorite with Prof. Lineberger, and his motto is "All things give place when there's a Stella in case." Ho works some and plays lots. His favorite occupation is strolling by Claremont.

ESSIE LEA ROBINSON

Hickory, N. C.

Music

Entered in 1911 as a special student of music. President of the Presto Music Club 1912.

"Listen here"

"Harmony" is the musician of the Class. Her whole nature may be summed up in the word harmony. She is usually jolly, though there is in all harmony a little discord now and then. She enjoys life and makes every one happy who comes in contact with her. She is perfectly contented when seated at a piano, and in the near future we shall expect to hear of the wonders of the great pianist, "Harmony."

IRENE CLADORA TICKLE

Elon College, N. C.

Art

Entered as Art student from Elon College 1911; member of Philalethian Literary Society, Oakview Missionary Guild, Athletic Association: Crescendo Music Club 1911-12; and Presto Music Club 1912-13; Vice-President Art Class 1911-13; winner of Art Medal 1912; Vice-President Conglomerate Club 1912-13; Secretary, Treasurer and Chaplain of Philalethian Society while in school.

"Sure Enough"

"Rene" is tall and graceful. She is always neat about her work, and is very exact in everything she does. Good natured and kind to every one. In her you will find the heart of a true friend and the soul of perseverance.

ETHEL MAY MOSTELLER

Hickory, N. C.

Art

Entered Lenoir 1911; member of Philalethian Literary Society, Oakview Missionary Guild, Glee Club, Crescendo Music Club; Voice Class; Cartoonist, Art Department 1911-12; Chaplain and Secretary of Philalethian Literary Society; Art Editor of Hacawa.

"Believe me"

"Ethel" is a jolly and attractive girl. She is entirely original in her ideas and every stroke of her brush portrays the characteristics of a natural born artist. She is also very witty and entertaining.

CLARA BELLE YODER

Hickory, N. C.

Art

Entered as Literary student 1909; Art student 1911-13; member of Eumenean Literary Society, Red-headed Club, Catawba County Country Club, Athletic Association; Expression student, 1911-12; Treasurer of Eumenean Society 1912; President of Art Class 1912-13; Vice-President of Red-headed Clnb 1912-13

"That just worries me"

"Clarissie" is very modest, so easily teased and blushies often, especially when you mention "Sam" to her. In the art room she is very quiet and diligent about her work. She practices patience, which is an essential characteristic of a fine artist.

EDNA MAIE HAMMAN

Maurertown, Va.

Expression

Entered school in fall of 1910. Private student in Expression; Member of Stecher Dramatic Club 1910-1912; member of Schultz Dramatic Club 1912-13; President Schultz Dramatic Club; Expects to graduate in A. B. course next year.

"Indeed"

"Edna" is a very loving and lovable girl. She is a very industrious and studious, and we predict a briliant future for her. She intends to continue her work in Expression.

Lives of Seniors all remind us,
We can make our lives sublime
And by asking foolish questions,
Take up recitation time.

Class History

It was on a bright September morning four years ago when we, the Class of 1913, entered the halls of old L. C. to begin our college career. Yes, we were Freshmen, sad and homesick, when we found ourselves at this strange place among so many strange people. How insignificant we felt when we looked into the faces of our great and noble Professors. We were sneered at by the Sophs, and constantly called 'greenies' by them, but time soon removed our timidity and, with the kind words of encouragement given by all the Faculty, we went to work with that earnestness and determination that is so characteristic of our class.

In the following September again, after many pleasant days of vacation, we entered the halls of L. C. not as meek and humble Freshmen, but as a class of twenty-three bright and happy Sophomores. We no longer feared the higher classes, but were rather respected by them because they knew that we were by no means 'greenies', as they once took us to be, but were bright and intellectual and were surpassed by no preceding Soph. Class. Our Sophomore year throughout, was very pleasant. We had semi-monthly meetings at which time programs were rendered, and Class Spirit began to develop rapidly.

As is the custom of the Sophomore Classes, we raised our flag, being successful in keeping the Freshmen down until the sun rose bright and beautiful upon it.

The most enjoyable occasion of the year was our banquet, which was very elaborate.

When the next year came around we had to lay aside some of our joys and pleasures for we were now bright Juniors. Sometimes our work seemed heavy and difficult to carry, but we did not lose courage but went to work with the determination to conquer rather than to be conquered.

Our class has been well represented in the Literary Societies, each member taking an active part in his or her Society.

We have also held a leading position in Athletics, in which we have won many a victory.

Each succeeding year has found our class growing smaller in numbers and only eleven of us are left to face the dole-ful Senior year, but as our class grows smaller, closer and closer have been drawn the ties that bind us together as friends and comrades. Many of us have had our trials and hardships, but we have borne them bravely, and have worked together with that class-love and sympathy until the last. Our goal has now been reached. We are ready to graduate into the trials and joys of life, and may each of us, as we seek our life's work, choose only that which is noble and good, ever striving to make the class of 1913 renowned.

Class Historian.

A Last Farewell

Oh hail to thee, ye fair Lenoir!
Now with memory of thy past years
And great visions of thy future,
We come to bid thee one farewell.
For a while beneath thy shelter
We have gathered from thy bounty
Grains of truth that still shall guide us,
When from thee we have widely wandered.
After these few years and fleeting,
We must leave thy sacred portals
And launch forth upon life's ocean
To invest thy Golden talents,
And to the world proclaim of thee:
"She has one aim and one desire
To make dim torches living fire".
Though far away fortune lead us
We'll praise thy great name forever,
And rejoice in all thy honors
Which we feel are but beginning.
On, and on, dear Alma Mater!
We would never stay thy progress.
May thy work be blessed forever
And thy harvest be abundant.
When thy fields are wide extended,
And the path of thy instruction
Broadens 'till within its boundaries
It embraces all professions;
When from every State and County
In this sweet land of liberty
Bands unite to sound thy praises,
And thy fame then be extended,
To other lands across the sea
Where thy sons and maids have journeyed
We'll e'er rejoice in thine and thee.

Class Prophecy

I came home from class meeting tired and discouraged, and as I sat down I rested my aching head on my hands. "The Class Prophecy!" That's the task my class brothers and sisters have placed upon me. Now, how can an ordinary human being like myself presume to prophecy? I shall surely have to invoke the aid of all the good fairies which I read about in my childhood days. But perhaps they don't believe in fairies, and would consider their prophecies nil. Let me think.....

"Go away, and don't bother me. No I don't care to see any moving pictures this afternoon. I am too tired."

But nevertheless, it was not many minutes before I was veiwing some of the most wonderful films I had ever seen. I opened my eyes in amazement, for there on the screen before me was my dear old friend and classmate, my partner in many an escapade, Charlotte Elaine, in an entirely new role as the minister's dignified wife, bidding an old friend—whom I recognized as myself—a cordial welcome to her home, a handsome parsonage by a magnificient stone church in Baltimore. Needless to say, I was greatly amazed, and before I could solve the problem, I observed a man in clerical costume enter the door, whom she introduced as, "My husband, Rev. Pence." On close observation I recognized him as one of the dear old class of 1913, but he had apparently lost all claim to his old L. C. appellation, for he was all smiles and welcome. Why should he not be so, for was he not the beloved pastor of one of the most noted churches in Baltimore?

"Mr. Holt has been more fortunate," he continued. "He and Irene were married in June 1913, and at present he is a noted attorney in New York with Irene as an inspiration. His words are full of wisdom, and are of much value to those who are able to comprehend them. Irene has not completely given up her Art, but on account of her social obligations she does not have much time for it.

"That reminds me of Louise." I remarked. "Where is she now? I asked my charming hostess.

"Why, she is still loyal to the Junior class. Since "he" finished his medical course he has taken up his father-in-law's practice, for there they make their home. I think that after a time she will make a good Sandlapper of him. She accompanies him on all visits to the sick, and many are made happy by her merry smile, and comforted by the touch of her soft hand.

"And I wonder what became of Dick," I ventured.

"I can easily tell you that," replied the gentleman, "for he is one of the foremost politicians of the day. The brilliant future all of us predicted for him seems to be his. His speeches sweep over the people as an avalanche, and engulf them in their eloquence. He was nominated as Governor of N. C. in the last race, and has excellent chances of being elected. "She" married some other fellow but that made Dick blue for only a short while, and his work seems to be his consolation."

This led us to talk of Mr. Seckinger. My hostess told me that after leaving Lenoir College he had decided that his calling was not the ministry, so he had taken up banking. He was now one of the most influential bankers in Georgia, and was the only multimillionaire of the class of 1913. His good looks had been so effectual that the Newberry girl was beyond doubt his Newberry girl now."

"And what became of Mr. Lake and Edna?" I asked.

"Mr. Lake has made excellent use of his talent as an impersonator, and now, he and his talented wife, Edna, annually tour the United States, and charm vast audiences with their glorious impersonations of Shakespearian characters. It is predicted that in a few years they will be the most famous people of all ages in their especial art, and will will leave names that will resound through all time.

"Ethel and Clara," he continued, "after striving for many years, all in vain, to get some one to venture on the sea of matrimony with them, decided to set up an art studio together. They are now residing in New York, and are working on their masterpiece. They have their whole soul in their art, so have no time to think or worry over 'lost love' ".

"There is one more of our classmates," I remarked, "that you have not told me about. Where is she now?"

"Essie? Why, after graduating at Lenoir she went abroad and specialized in music. She is now classed as one of the greatest musicians, and her popularity increases with each succeeding year. She charms all nations of the world with her glorious concerts."

I was bidding my friends adieu when I felt my hand grabbed suddenly, and there was Louise shaking me and telling me to rouse myself, and listen to what she had to say. She was telling me excitedly about the handsome cow-boy who was the hero on the screen. I opened my lips to tell her the picture I had seen, but I stopped and thought; "I won't betray the confidence of the fairies; I shall keep their secrets for the Hacawa."

Our Mission

We often sigh for a lofty work
But shirk too oft a little task;
We strive to gain a prince's smile
But scorn a prince in lowly mask.

We toil that music's magic art
Shall win us fame in future years,
But hear no tone in artless mirth
So pass unseen a face in tears.

For the muse's aid we feel a need
To win applause from high and low,
But crave no skill from day to day
To paint a smile on childhoods brow.

We search the new in science to find
As burns our midnight oil away,
Then know not how to draw for man
A beam of light from a cloudy day.

We long to flash the wireless away,
Over ocean and hill and glen
And lack the skill in a life of gloom,
The sunshine's brightest rays to send.

The heathen's call our minds inspire
With zeal to work on foreign soil,
But we fail to lift a struggling soul,
Who sinks unaided in present toil.

God calls but few to rule the world,
The rest He asks for willing hands,
So we our mission each must fill
Or leave a blank in His great plans.

Class Poet

Junior History

A few years ago when the clock of time began the school of nineteen hundred and ten, twenty-two boys and girls came to Lenoir to enter as Freshmen. And although it matters not how green we looked, we had the grit and nerve to fight the battles of our first year. And when the next school year opened nineteen out of our number came back to show their colors as Sophomores. That year a few new members came and cast their lots with us, increasing our number to twenty-five. After we had finished the Sophomore year which was comprised of both pleasures and troubles, twenty-two members arrived upon the scene to enter the Junior class together.

Our class is not only making records in the Literary sphere of the college but also in Art, Expression, Oratory, and Athletics. To impress this upon your mind let me repeat to you a few things of merit that our class has done. Our members have won, in medals, the Scholarship, Expression, Art, and Catawba County Declaimers medal. Our boys have surpassed all the other classes on the athletic field in football, baseball, tennis and track. And as well, the class as a whole lose none of their spirit in the class room.

After we have finished this year, toiling under the persistent care of our proficient professors, we hope to see the entire class back next year to continue its present record.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

Sophomore Poem

O, why should the spirit of the Sophomore be gay,
From duty the Sophs. will never swerve,
They always walk in the straight and narrow way,
And stand in readiness to serve.

Our toil and pleasures will soon be o'er,
And out into this world we'll have to roam,
But our "Alma Mater" we'll forget nevermore,
Though far, far away from "Home, sweet home".

'Twill be a sad time when two years go apace,
When we from each other and friends must part,
But as we go from this dear old place,
The truths taught us will linger in each heart.

Hurrah for the Class of Nineteen fifteen!
Hurrah for our tact and grit and knowledge!
And we feel like repeating it nineteen times fifteen,
That we owe it all to Lenoir College.

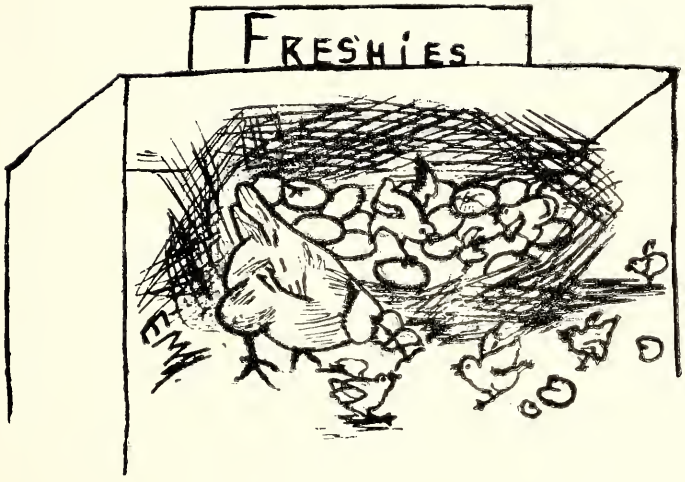

ELVIRA SHEELY

Sophomore History

In September 1911, forty-four Freshmen entered Lenoir College, for the sole purpose of launching out upon a voyage of discovery and conquest. We firmly believed that, somewhere in the dark maze of of the future, many precious truths lay concealed and that these truths could be found only by constant toil and perseverance. Well did we know that to fulfil the divine purpose of our creation and serve mankind, we must not only seek the truth, but we must find the truth. At the same time we realize that whatever success we might achieve should be the reward of honest toil. Consequently, we put forth our best efforts to have the Honor System adopted at Lenoir College. And although our efforts were defeated, we did not lose hope in our cause. After many difficulties and disapointments had been met and overcome, our school year closed, and we cast anchor within the harbor of the Sophomore Class.

September 1912 came, and found us ready to report for duty. And although our number was slightly reduced, we received so many new recruits that we have the largest Sophomore Class in the history of Lenoir College. Now we are looked up to and respected by the Freshmen, and by our exemplary conduct and consideration for others, we have won the recognition of the higher classes and the good will of the Faculty. In class-room and society work and also in athletics we stand second to no class in school. And especially are we proud of the fact that the Sophomore Class—at one of its meetings—unanimously adopted the Honor System, thereby giving our class the distinction and honor of being the first class to adopt this system at Lenoir College. Judging by the success of the past there is no doubt that we may be more successful in the future, since we never despair.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Freshman Poem

(With apologies to Longfellow)

We sat on the lawn at twilight,
As the bells were ringing their call,
And the moon rose over the city,
Behind the gray college wall.

We saw the bright lights gleaming
In the buildings far above
Like golden memories teeming
In our hearts so full of love.

How often, oh how often,
We have wished in our Freshman year
That a kindly fate would bear us
To our distant homes so dear.

For we were young and restless,
And our lives were full of care,
And the Soph's dark frown upon us
Seemed more than we could bear.

And so we sat in the twilight
And thought of days to come
Our dear old Alma Mater,
Our happy college home.

And far in the hazy distance
Of a lovely morn in May
We saw the joys that await us,
Our graduation day.

Freshman Class History

A few of the Freshman Class were Sub-Freshmen last year. They did successful work as Sub-Freshmen and entered the Freshman Class with honors. Many new members who did good work in high schools and preparatory schools were gladly welcomed into the class.

During the latter part of September, 1912, the first class meeting was called. At this meeting officers were elected, a motto was chosen, and the colors were selected. Several meetings were called throughout the year whenever business was to be transacted.

At the beginning of school we were an object of contempt to the higher classes—especially the Sophs. They called us names but this only amused us, as they were afraid to tackle us. They soon began to find out that, although we lacked some knowledge, we were well supplied with grit.

We are well represented in athletics. We have members on the baseball, tennis and track teams. As our class is one of the largest and best in the history of the college, we are proud of it. We hope that all the old members will return next year and take up their work. We will also welcome any new members that decide to cast their lot with us.

CLYDE HERMAN

The Afterglow

I was sitting alone by my fireside,
Watching the dying glow
Of the pine-knot on the irons,
Burning away so slow.
And just when the rooom seemed darkest
When I thought each spark had gone,
Suddenly a tongue of flame leaped up,
And but for a moment shown.
It flickered and then it vanished,
Like a ray of hope to a soul
Lost in the pit of darkness
Before it reaches its goal.
It shown but the space of a second,
Casting light o'er all the room,
So a little ray of sunshine
Will dispell the deepest gloom.

The embers were my schooldays,
Which had passed beyond recall;
Burned away, while I was dreaming,
Watching shadows on the wall.
Then, when all the light had vanished,
Then, when all the joy seemed gone,
Suddenly the spark of memory
Like the little pine beam shone.
And when days were darkest, saddest,
And the world seemed going wrong,
Then the memory of my schooldays
Has cheered me with its song.

HISTORY

With the adoption of the Honor System by the students of Lenoir College at a mass meeting November 30th 1912, the Student Executive Council became one of the very important student organizations in the College community.

The Council consists of a president, elected by the student body at large, two representatives—one lady and one gentleman—from each of the College classes, and one representative—lady or gentleman—from each of the Preparatory classes, all representatives elected by their respective classes.

The duties of the council are to try all cases of cheating or unfairness on quizzes or examinations, with power to pass sentence of expulsion upon any student found guilty.

Thus far, we have had only one case reported and it was simply a case of suspicion and amounted to nothing more than a warning to others.

The students have taken the matter of dishonesty in hand and with the Honor System working well are determined to eradicate cheating of every nature. Lenoir College with the Honor System shall take her rightful place among the foremost instutions of learnin the South.

College Jokes

Prof. Patterson (after a longwinded proof) "And now, gentlemen, we get X : O."

Sleepy voice (from rear of room.)—"Gee, all that work for nothing!"

Miss Stella Lineberger.—"Ethel, do you think it would be all right for Mr. Seckinger to send me a chicken?"

Ethel Mosteller—"Just so he don't get it from our coop."

Mr. E. Z. Pence (addressing the primary department of the Sunday School during his home visit:) "Dear Sunday School children, chirographic conglomeration of exuberant, sonorous verbosity is inebriating to any learned sophisticated rhetorician."

Professor—"Use 'confounded' in a sentence."

Freshman—"The confounded fool hit me."

If "Skinny" weighs 300 pounds, what does Milky Way?

She was a Freshman.

"Oh, dear," she sighed, "I simply can't adjust my curriculum."

"It—it doesn't show any," he reassured her, blushing.

Mr. H. L. Faggart (when he had finished primping and stood before the mirror)—"Boo, you old sweet thing you."

Lucy Yoder—"There is nothing I like better than cold weather, but if there could be Hale near me all the time, it would be so much better"'

Prof. Lineberger—"Whatever you want, ask of me and I will give it unto thee—even to the half of my kingdom."

Miss Schultz—"Just let me chaperone you to the picture show some night."

REPRESENTING GEORGIA, FLORIDA, AND SOUTH CAROLINA

Class Will

In the Name of Prof. Little, Amen.

We, the Senior Class of Lenoir College, being in good spirits and of sound minds and memories, and considering the frailties and uncertainties of this life, do hereby feel it our duty toward Faculty and Students to make and publish this, our last will and testament.

The aforesaid parties do this through divine goodness and mercy upon those we leave behind, and to try to eliminate some of the misery they are yet to experience.

I, Nora Coulter, do hereby bequeath to the Junior Class all of my Senior dignity, responsibility, and honor on condition that they do not abuse the privilege and irritate the professors.

I, Louise Eargle, give and bequeath to the college my vast supply of imagination, hoping that it will serve next years Astronomy class.

I, Naomi Cline, do hereby will and bequeath to the young ladies of Oakview my possession of the War Path with the sincere hope that they will meet with a better fate than I.

I, R. H. Shuford, do hereby devise, give and bequeath to Prof. "Gus" Rudisill my unlimited knowledge of Chemistry, and to Miss Shirey my title to a girl at Oakview.

I, E. Z. Pence, do hereby bequeath to my beloved Prof. Little, all of my knowledge of German and Bible, together with my Math.

I, D. C. Holt, devise and bequeath to my friend "Titus" Rhyne my classical library of interlinears with the hopes that he may reach the shore of glory unmolested as I did.

I Mamie Lee Miller bequeath to my successors my gentle spirit of peace and quietude.

I, J. L. Morgan, do hereby will and order that my unqueanchable love for the ladies of Oakview be given to my old friend Mr. C. O. Lippard.

I, D. L. Seckinger, do hereby give, devise and bequeath my check for ten thousand tender recollections to Miss Stella Lineberger.

I, Essie Robinson, do hereby will to the world my knowledge of music.

I, Lottie Cline, do hereby bequeath to the Faculty my love for their text books.

I. R. C. Lake, do hereby will to my friend R. O. McCoy my typical example of a Student Committeeman with the hope that he will carry out my far reaching plans.

I, Irene Tickle, will and bequeath tc the whole student body my example of a sincere artist.

I, Edna Hamman, do hereby will and bequeath my dearly beloved friend, Mr. Caspar Kipps, my share in the glories of the "Old Dominion" for I have determined to become a Sandlapper.

I, Ethel Mosteller, bequeath to the Junior boys my remaining talent for Art, with the hope that they may have pleasure in its study.

I, Clara Yoder, hereby bequeath to Mr. Sam Glass all of my talking capacity.

In Testimony whereof, we, the Senior Class of Lenoir College, to this our last Will and Testament, have subscribed our names and fixed our seals this, the twenty-first day of May, Nineteen Hundred and Thirteeen.

(Signed) Class of 1913

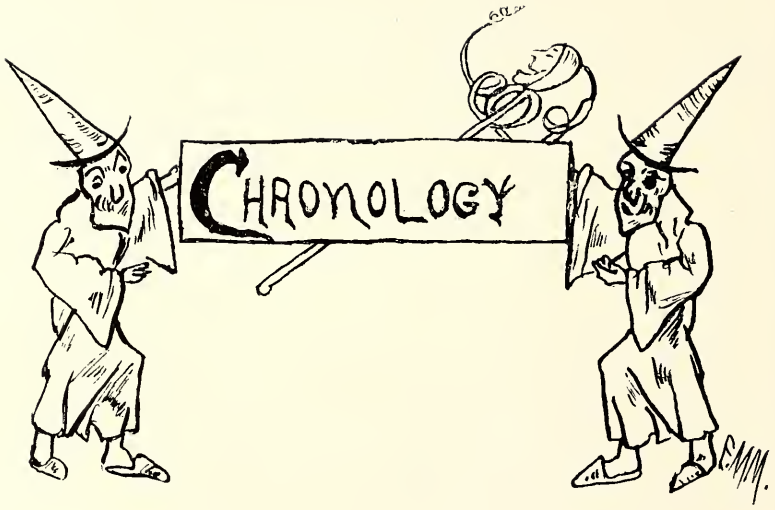

The young man led for a heart,
The maid for a diamond played;
The old man came down with a club,
And the sexton with a spade.
